Vice President of Medical Services announced for Central Health

Karen McGrath, Chief Executive Officer of Central Health, today announced that Dr. Michael Zuckerman joins the organization as the Vice President of Medical Services.

"Dr. Zuckerman brings a wealth of experience to this position and we are extremely excited that he is coming to work with us," said Ms. McGrath. "The Vice President of Medical Services is an extremely important role within our organization. With Dr. Zuckerman in this position, we will continue to move forward with important issues related to medical services within the region."

Michael Zuckerman MD earned his Doctor of Medicine from Howard University College of Medicine in Washington, D.C. and a Bachelor of Arts from the University of Michigan in Ann Arbor, Michigan.

After completing medical school, Dr. Zuckerman did his residency in Obstetrics and Gynecology in Brooklyn, New York. Dr. Zuckerman was a prominent physician in the New York area and Medical Director of a large clinical system.

In addition to his clinical work, Dr. Zuckerman served as the Director of Medical Affairs of Reuters Insight Division. In this capacity, he promoted awareness of health issues, identified, recruited and developed consulting relationships with medical leaders and experts to provide evidence based insights into healthcare research.

Dr. Zuckerman began his new role as VP of Medical Services in January 2009.
